

■ Null

`Null` is a symbol used to indicate the absence of an expression or a result. When it appears as an output expression, no output is printed.

$e_1; e_2; \dots; e_k$; returns `Null`, and prints no output. ■ Expressions like $f[e_1, e_2]$ are interpreted to have `Null` between each pair of adjacent commas. ■ See page 578.